ChefHeads Magazine – The Leading Culinary Network in the German-Speaking World

ChefHeads Magazine is the professional publication for top chefs, ambitious restaurateurs, and culinary decision-makers. It sees itself as a platform among equals – founded and published by a practitioner who understands the demands of fine dining from personal experience.

With over four decades of kitchen experience, publisher and editor Guido Fritz brings his extensive expertise to every issue. His professional career in upscale gastronomy shapes the magazine's editorial voice: well-founded, practice-oriented, and uncompromisingly quality-driven. ChefHeads is not an outside observer, but part of the industry.

The magazine offers carefully researched book reviews, exclusive reports from renowned fine dining restaurants, practical recommendations for everyday kitchen operations, as well as analytical background reports on trends, techniques, and forward-looking gastronomic concepts. The editorial mission is clearly defined: to deliver content that not only informs but inspires – and substantially supports the culinary elite in their daily work. ChefHeads combines professional expertise with passion and creates a network that consolidates knowledge, broadens

The profile

The monthly online magazine from the network of culinary arts, the »ChefHeads – Club of the Chefs of the culinary community. More than 750 members live this on the subject of enjoyment and passion in all its facets. The entire network includes more than 10,000 followers from the hotel and restaurant industry.

Current reports with great photos about top gastronomy, presentation of top and star chefs, kitchen trends with current examples, recipes from star chefs, wine stories, plus (cook)book tips, column and interviews, and much more.

The target group

The ChefHeads magazine is aimed at business owners, operations managers, pastry chefs, and leaders in the industry segments of hotels, gastronomy, cafés, and communal catering.

The mix of topics and the sections particularly take into account the entrepreneurial interests of culinary professionals.

Standard & Special Topics

The ChefHeads magazine is unique with its practical topics in the areas of hotel management, gastronomy, catering, and kitchen technology. The regular standard and special topics include the areas: chef portraits, travel, purchasing & procurement, energy efficiency, food & beverage, and everything that concerns culinary arts.

Media partnerships

We support Fine Food Days Cologne, INTERGASTRA, and INTERNORGA with our reports. This also includes tourist offices in Switzerland and Austria. In addition, we have been a long-standing media partner of Chef of the Year in Germany.

Online

Increase your advertising message with our online opportunities and reach your target audience without scatter loss. By involving our social media channels, we expand the reach and generate traffic on our platforms, because the needs and habits of readers are heterogeneous and the age groups of decision-makers are different.
